Christmas Dinners Behind Bars, With Bitter Tears for Sauce.

"Peace on earth, and good will toward

The Christmas dinner has been, since the earliest Christian history, an event which has been looked forward to with the greatest expectation and most potent imagination, especially by the growing generation, as the most important of the year. To those who have passed the heyday of life it is looked forward to as a reunion of friends and relatives, and a time when the incidents, trials, and tribulations of their existence during the time since they last met, will be poured into sympathetic ears. Thousands and hundreds of thousands of turkeys of all ages, sizes and conditions in life will be placed upon the Christmas board throughout the civilized world to be eaten by the assembled guests. Perchance, in some few thousands of cases, only an attempt will be made to enjoy the fowl, when, for instance, the length of time which the bird has been upon earth is uncertain.

THE THANKLESS ONES. While millions of people are thus assembled and a prayer of thanks to the Almighty is ascending from their lips, will those doomed to spend their Christmas in jails, workhouses and penitentiaries be remembered except by those to whom they are still beld dear, despite their crimes?

A gentleman, when spoken to on the sub-ject yesterday, said: "I wonder if the Christians throughout the country when they sit down to their Christmas dinner, and while asking the accustomed blessing, as the board before them groans with the weight of delicacies, think of their tellow creatures who are incarcerated in the various penal institutions within a few miles of them? Do they, while contentedly guawing at the fat turkey, think that the convicts are possibly chewing the bone of dischildren of these men, who are struggling through life's rugged path with the stain on their protector's name hanging over them, sitting down to a Christmas dinner which may consist only of a cup of tea and a crust

To solve the problem a DISPATCH representative called at the penitentiary, the workbouse and the jail yesterday. At the former place he was told that the prisoners would be given an extra fine dinner with a menu which would lead with roast beef, and be followed with vegetables, side dishes of various degrees of delicacy, mashed potatoes and ten or coffee. The convicts will be given a holiday and the workshops will be Extraordinary Killing of an Enormous Buck la Hampton Township.

An extraordinary thing happened yesterday that has not occurred for years and probably will never in this county again. The cap snapped and the load of birdshot in the other barrel were buried harmlessly in the thick fur. Valiant Lunch, bowever, was loaded for deer, and under the direction of Mr. Jones, soon found the deer. He set his teeth, shut both eyes, pulled both

As for the poor deer, there is no doubt he was chased down from Clarion county by dogs or hunters, as a fresh wound on his hip showed. He made a hard fight for it and lost.

HIS HONOR AND THE ERRING. some People Who Will Dine at County

Broken by 49 Hard Cases. The spring of '49 wasn't a marker to the nervous jump of the 49 in Central station on Sabbath morning when John Gripp rapped sharply on the desk and announced as his text, "Why is this thusly?"

This break from the orthodox text was justified, for the assemblage broke the record in numbers and appearance. Just PORK AND BRANS ARE GOOD ENOUGH filed solemnly in from behind the bars and need the inevitable and John Gripp.

Unfortunate number one was a rather pretty youth, and His Honor's face softened as he gased at a downy mustache that seemed to fairly curl with apprehension.

"My pretty boy," said he, sorrowfully, "why do I find you here amid such surroundings? Why did you try to lick a man twice your size? Why did the officer chase you ten blocks, and why, oh why, did he bring you here?"

Mr. Naixt was a spectacle. He may have been pretty at one time, but that was before policemen and maces were invented.

"What is the charge?" "Lookin' in women's pockets."
"Eh?" said His Honor, sharply, who is a married man himself.

"A peepin' in women's pockets."
"Let him go," said Gripp, "Any man who has the nerve to look in a woman's pocket has my sympathy." After several very ordinary d, d, d's (very drunk and disorderlies) had been disposed of, a gentleman, evidently from the country, clanked in, and to the judgment

Hotels on Christman - The Record Touching Letter of Resignation From the Rev. Howard B. Grose.

ORDINATION OF TWO CLERGYMEN.

A Fatal Panic in the New Chartiers Church Barely Prevented.

INTERESTING RELIGIOUS NOTES

At the close of his impressive Christmas sermon in the Fourth Avenue Baptist Church yesterday morning, the pastor, Rev. Howard B. Grose, read to the church and congregation a letter tendering his resignation. This had been, to a certain extent, anticipated by all who had read in THE chase you ten blocks, and why, oh why, did he bring you here?"

"Because," said the deceptive youth, feeling to see if his knuckles were saie, "because I couldn't get away."

Bob snickered at this and received a warning glance, while the boy received 30 days.
All eyes then turned to the man whom the turnkey called "Naixt."

Mr. Neither and why, oh why, did the call Mr. Grose had received to the Presidency of the University of South Dakota, made vacant by the recent sudder death of his intimate friend, Prot. Olson, who perished in the Minneapolis Tribune disaster.

In his letter of resignation Mr. Grose reviewed his 18 months' pleasant pastorate in Pittsburg, told of how hopefully he had planued his future work in the same promising field, referred to the harmony and happiness of his large flock, and said that under ordinary circumstances he would have deemed it impossible to even consider a call to vacate such a pulpit and accept a position so altogether different in both its requirements and in its very character.

A CALL FROM A HIGHER SOURCE. But the call had come with such unanimity from trustees, faculty and studentswho only knew of the close relationship and kindred acquirements of Prof. Olson and himself-and the impression was so positive that it was likewise a call from the higher source for him to take up and carry on the great work that his dearest friend had so, nobly commenced, that the pastor felt he simply must respond to the summons. The pastoral duties would, Mr. Grose believed, be ably, earnestly and immedi-Judge; and how that farmer will ite about the ins and outs of Pittsburg.

Viewed with regard to its effect at this end of the line, the resignation of Rev. Howard B. Grose can only be looked upon with deep regret. A vigorous intellectual and spiritual guid, he will be greatly missed from the most influential Baptist pulpit in Western Pennsylvania. A graduate of Rochester University, he has many of the stefling qualities of Dr. M. B. There is no importance attached to the event

The exercises yesterday were of a simple character. They consisted chiefly in an examination of the Sunday school children in the church catechism, and the lighting of the candles in honor of the event. At 3 o'clock the children marched into the church from the school room and were seated in the front of the auditorium. The pastor, Rev. A. Bernstein, conducted the examination of the children, after which a number of recitations were given by the During the exercises Master Harry Gibousky lit seven candles on the altar and read from a Hebrew work the meaning of the celebration. The candles are supposed to represent the oil that was burned in the temple at Jerusaiem after it was recovered from the Syrians. The oil was burned for eight days to purify the temple. The can-

Answer To-Day. · The congregation of the Grace Reformed Church will decide to-day whether or not they will sell their church building at the corner of Webster avenue and Grant street. The limit of time for the option of $1,000 has about expired, and the Italian congregation are anxious to find out whether they will be able to purchase or not. The people of the Grace Church have offered the building for $35,000, but some of them do not want to sell at that figure. It is said the church could have been bought a year ago for $27,000. On account of the bazaar being held in the basement of St. Paul's Cathedral the Italians have been obliged to vacate the place. They are now worshiping in the exhibition ball of the Mercy Convent on Webster street which has been converted
